Commences: 15th MAY 2020 Time: 7.30 pm to 8.30 pm Course fee: Rs 1000 /- Out of the six systems of Indian philosophy (śaddarśanās) accepting the authority of Vedas, the pūrva mīmāmsā has devoted itself exclusively to the methods of correct interpretation of Vedic texts. With the help of pūrva mīmāmsā darśana complicated Vedic injunctions (Vidhi) regarding rituals may be understood and given effect to. The mīmāmsā sutrās of Maharshi Jaimini is the basic text of this system. It is a voluminous work comprising more than 2500 aphorisms (sutrās) divided into 12 chapters. The bhāsya of śabara svāmin gives the most authoritative interpretation of the sutrās, kumārila bhatţa, prabhākara and murāri miśra have written commentaries on this bhāsya and developed the mīmāmsā system further.

Artha Sangraha of Laugākṣi Bhāskara is a manual of pūrva mīmāmsā. It briefly gives all important doctrines of pūrva mīmāmsā spread over 12 chapters of Jaimini sutrās. The desire to know dharma, the necessity of systematic study of dharma, definition of dharma is discussed in the beginning of this book which follows the tradition of kumārila bhaṭṭa. Then the types of Vedic statements namely vidhi, niṣedha, nāmadheya, mantra and arthavāda are addressed.

To justify the supreme authority of Vedas, the mīmāmsā darśana has developed an elaborate epistemology which has been accepted by other schools namely vyākaraṇa , yoga, āyurveda , dharmaśāstra and especially the vedānta darśana. An earnest study of its theory of Knowledge as also its method of interpreting the Vedic sentences will be of great help in understanding the Vedantic systems better.

About the course

About the course
The Nātyaśāstra lays the foundation for the grammar and aesthetics of all performing arts of India, the classical theatre in particular. A thorough study of the text can benefit a poet, musician, dancer, sculptor, painter, theatre artist, art critic and an aesthetician. The Rasa theory expounded by Bharata-muni in Nātyaśāstra forms the basis on which many artistic disciplines have evolved over the course of Indian history.

The course enables a complete textual reading of the Nāṭyaśāstra in its original, along with the relevant segments of the Abhinava-bhāratī, a commentary on the text by Abhinava-gupta. It provides a thorough understanding of the aesthetics of Indian classical art forms, thereby enabling the performing artists and connoisseurs to dive deeper into their respective forms of art.

Course details

- * The online course is offered in four consecutive levels * Duration of each level is three months or 60 hours * Each level carries 4 credits with specific topics covered from
